

Home learning ideas for Geography

Can you research your local area and create a map?

Have a look on google earth at your local area, how many roads names can you find? Then go for a walk and see if you can identify the road names.

Play a game of hide & seek with countries around the world. Use the world map to help you.

Choose a country from each continent and then use the met office website to research the weather patterns from the country.

Create a map of an island that represents your life. Use knowledge of landforms and symbols to design your map.

Can you label a blank world map with the different countries?

Can you research facts about different countries within the world? Food? Religion? Capital City?

Can you find as many interesting facts about different rivers around the world?

Using your artistic skills can you create a new flag for a country of your choice.

Using playdough, can you create a model of the earth. Remember the core, the outer core, the inner core and the crust.

Can you create your own board game about different countries? Find out the population, the size of the country. The economy of the country.