Mrs Jones had planned a special surprise for the family. They were going to take a trip to a chocolate factory. The children were full of excitement because they had never been before and they couldn't wait to eat lots of chocolate. Dad was in charge of directions. When they arrived, they spotted the tallest chocolate tower they had ever seen! The tour guide handed the children a shiny, golden wrapper and they tore it open as quickly as they could! Inside was a new invention of dark, creamy chocolate covered with sprinkles.
