

Here are some optional extra creative activities you might like to complete with your little one to help consolidate the Little Red Hen Story.

Get creative!

To consolidate the story there are lots of exciting creative activities you can do with your little one! Have a look at some of the ideas below but many more can also be found online if you search Little Red Hen activities.

1. Make bread

To understand the process of making bread, why not bake some with your little one? You may have a super recipe already, but if not, the following link is a great place to start.

2. Playdoh

A great alternative to making real bread! You can mix, rub and knead the playdoh into lots of imaginary shapes. Pretend to be the Little Red Hen while doing so and serve the 'bread' when finished. Here is a great recipe for making your own playdoh;

- 2 cups white flour
- 1/4 cup cream of tartar
- 1/2 cup salt
- 2 Tablespoons vegetable oil
- 2 cups water
- Porridge Oats

3. Small world play

Have fun with any small world animals you may have and act out the story using the story language you have learnt. You can also use your playdoh as extra sensory play for your animals to play in!

4. Puppets

Make your own puppets to role play the story. There are many ways to do this... stick puppets...paper plates...finger puppets...have a look at some ideas below.

A google search will give you many links to printable ideas but it is also lovely for your child to draw and make their own.

5. Make a Little Red Hen

There are some amazing ways to make a Little Red Hen! How will you make yours?
